WASHINGTON

August 20, 1964

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I appreciate the progress report of the Interdepartmental Committee on the Status of Women made today by you and Chairman John Macy of the Civil Service Commission which while it offers some encouragement, also indicates the distance we have to go before equality of employment opportunity is a reality.

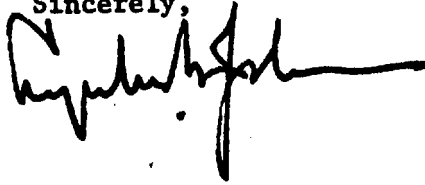

The efforts of the members of your Committee and of the majority of agency and department heads to enlarge employment and promotion opportunities for women in the Federal Service are gratifying to me and to the women whose cause you serve so well, and I commend all of you. During the past seven months, an unprecedented number of women--well over twelve hundred--have been appointed or promoted to positions in grades GS-12 and up, however many of the out-moded customs and prejudices which have historically barred women from consideration for such appointments still remain and must be destroyed before further progress can be made.

Therefore, I expect those agency and department heads which have not yet done so to instruct their officials here in Washington and throughout the field to recruit, hire and consider for advancement qualified women on all levels on an equal basis with men. I also expect those agency and department heads which have established enlightened employment programs for women to make sure that the work which has been so well begun at their headquarters will be effectively implemented and continued outside of as well as in Washington. And I especially want the appropriate field officials to know how much we are all depending on their daily decisions on appointments and promotions for the ultimate success of this program--nationwide and at every level of Government.

Finally, Mr. Secretary, I would like you to share with each department and agency a summary of the status of the program and impressions of the significance of information each has provided.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "Richard B. Fisher", with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.
